Illinois is a world leader in research, teaching, and public engagement. We serve the state, the nation, and the world by creating knowledge, preparing students for lives of impact, and addressing critical societal needs through the transfer and application of knowledge. Illinois is the place where we embrace difference. We embrace it because we value it. Illinois is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the Illinois community.

SHORT DESCRIPTION SUMMARIZING POSITION FUNCTIONS
The School of Labor and Employment Relations has a vacant faculty position in Labor Economics. We are interested in candidates who have teaching and research interests in labor economics. This is a full-time tenure-track or tenured position that combines research with teaching in the School’s master’s and PhD programs in human resources and industrial relations. The School is an academic unit that concentrates on research and teaching in employment relations. The School is especially interested in candidates with a research interest in personnel economics. A joint appointment with the economics department is possible based on the interests of the candidate.
