Modern Poland:
Partitioned, Displaced, Reinvented

Spring Semester 2011, Wednesdays 2:00-4:50
Course Listing: REES 296 and POL/SLAV 199
Location: 431 Armory

Students from all disciplines and interest areas welcome!
No previous foreign language training required!
History majors enrolling in REES 296 satisfy part of their required 18 credit hrs of non-HIST “supporting course work” and/or part of their LAS requirement.

We will explore pressing questions about Poland from the time of its partition and dissolution up through the present day:

– The struggle for independence and development of Polish national identity
– Racial interchange & conflict, Poland’s Jewish, Ukrainian, German, & Lithuanian heritage
  – The Holocaust, border shifts, and population displacement
– Poland’s postwar reinvention as a homogenous nation-state and industrial power
– Responses to Communism and ongoing integration into the EU.
